Madrid, September 23.

LAST Week the Archbishop of Toledo went to the Escorial, to lay before the King the Account he had received from Rome, of the Progress made in the Process begun by the Pope's Order against Cardinal Alberoni; and to desire on the Part of the Pope, that such Information on that Affair as can be given by the Ministers of this Court, and particularly by Father d'Aubenton his Majesty's Confessor, the Marquess de Tolosa Secretary of State, and Don Joseph de Pariano, may be transmitted thither. The Bishop of Pampelona, the new Inquisitor-General, is on his Way hither from Pampelona. Upon Advice that the Plague continues at Marseilles and thereabouts, repeated Orders have been sent to all the Ports, for using all Vigilance to prevent the coming in of any Vessels from the Levant without proper Certificates of Health; and the Governour of Barcelona has sent an Advice to Court, that a Catalonian Vessel which had touched at one of the Ports of Provence, had by his Order been stopped at the Entrance of the Harbour of Barcelona, and that he had caused the Crew of that Vessel to go with her to a Part of the Coast lying at a proper Distance from Barcelona, there to perform strict Quarantain.

It is advised from Bologna, that Sig. Aldobrandini the Pope's late Nuncio to this Republiak, was arrived there; and was preparing to proceed on his Journey to Genoa, in order to embark there for Barcelona on his way to the Court of Madrid, whither the Pope has ordered him to repair with all Diligence. We have an Account from Brescia that the Prince d'Ortajanó with several Persons of his Retinue, had passed through that Place on his Return from Milan to Vienna. On the 26th Instant the only Son of the Procurator Giustiniani was married to a Lady of the Family of Barbarigo in the Palace of that Name, at which Ceremony the numerous Relations of both those Families made a splendid Appearance, and even the Doge himself was present wearing his Robe and Ducal Cap; the Matrimonial-Service was performed by Sig. Genoa, Oct. 2. The Magistrates of Health of this Republick had no Letters from their Consul at Marseilles by the two last Posts, so that at present all our Advices from the Neighbouring Parts of France are only from Aix and Nice; From which Places it is advised, that the contagious Distemper was encreased at Marseilles, that 4000 had died of it in two Days, that it was got to Aix, and several Villages thereabouts, as also in Salons, and into some Places of the Contat d'Avignon.

Paris, Oct. 13. Advice being come that there had been a Tumult at Lyons, which the Magistrates had appeased, it was thought fit however to order the Marshal Duke de Villeroy to go to his Government there, to prevent any further Disorders; and accordingly he went away Post this Morning. The Marshal de Montesquiou set out at the same time for his Government of Languedoc. This Day an Arrêt was published, declaring, that the Bank Bills shall no longer be received at any of the Offices for the King's Revenues, even for Taxes and Duties which became due between the 1st of January last and the Day of the Date of this Arrêt; nor pass current in Commerce in any Payments after the first of November next, otherwise than by free Consent between the Parties.
